Introduction

If you’re a qualified practitioner, or are looking to start a career in the healing professions, this e-book could be the most important information you ever read.

Imagine if you could truly help people heal? Of course that’s the dream of most people who go into the healing profession. But conventional medicine and even many forms of alternative medicine, have limits. They often address symptoms instead of getting to the root of the problem and promoting real healing.

What if you could use a system that harnesses the body’s innate healing power? No, it’s not a hands-on healing technique. It’s not crystals, voodoo or pixie dust. Its “energy medicine” or Bio-energetics. Essentially, it’s activating the body’s own information and energy to heal itself.

If you’re not familiar with the term, here is a simple definition:

Bio-energetics is the study of information and energy in living organisms.

An evolution is taking place right now, and you’re on the cutting edge. It’s literally changing the landscape of how we go about healing as we know it, rapidly speeding recovery time, and making old methods obsolete.

Many practitioners are calling this revolution “The Most Important Discovery Since DNA”, but the potential has largely gone untapped, until now.

You’ll find out more in the next pages, but first I want to tell you why I’m so passionate about this new healthcare discovery...and how it can magnify, and even revolutionize your health practice.

World-Wide telemedicine has arrived, and you’re just about to learn about the cutting edge of this phenomenon.

Our remote scanning device and software will revolutionize healthcare because you are no longer confined to treating clients in your own neighborhood.

Now you can build a global health practice, treating clients anywhere in the world, at any time. You can grow an online business and scale it to the size you want it...or just keep it small and intimate, working less and enjoying a higher quality of life.

Whatever goal you want to reach in helping clients and building a practice, now you...scan!
Hi, my name is Harry Massey.

Sometimes it takes years for all the pieces of a puzzle to fall into place before a dream becomes reality.

That dream began twelve years ago, when I was inspired to create a Home WellNES System for people like me. At that time I was ill, and getting sicker by the month. I was diagnosed with Chronic Fatigue Syndrome (CFS) and my health deteriorated steadily until I was bedridden for seven long years.

The symptoms were devastating. Crushing fatigue would hit me like a storm, leaving a black cloud over my head. I visited practitioner after practitioner, searching for answers in both conventional and alternative medicine – to the point where my parents were fed up driving me to one clinic after another.

Fortunately along the way, I met Peter Fraser, a visionary scientific thinker who had invested more than 20 years researching what he called the “human body-field” and developed remedies based on his discoveries. Amazingly, these remedies helped me get better step by step, until I made a complete recovery.

One day while lying in bed staring at the ceiling, I had a flash of insight:

"Why should people who are so ill they can’t get out of bed have to drag themselves from clinic to clinic in hopes of finding the right help? What if there was a way for people to find out what was wrong with them and get well from the comfort of their own home?"

I was extremely weak, but strongly determined to devise a way for people to discover what was going on in our bodies, and develop energy-based biotechnologies and “information” to help people world-wide.

This was the birth of a revolutionary idea: a total wellness system that works remotely so that anyone can be advised by a practitioner on what’s going on in their bodies and activate their healing system, whether you are resting in bed or travelling the world.

Bio-energetic medicine saved my life. It also led to my mission in life: to create the healthcare of the future, that anyone can access, anytime, anywhere.

Yours in WellNES,

Harry Massey, CEO
About NES Health, Harry Massey, and You

In 2002, Harry Massey founded NES Health Limited, a company dedicated to creating a 21st-century system of healthcare based on integrating physics and biology.

He invented two health-related clinical technologies: the NES miHealth and NES ProVision, along with developing a range of Infoceuticals, a new breed of liquid energetic remedies with information imprinted, or encoded, in water.

Harry is also the author of a number of books including: The Unturned Stone, Decoding The Human Bodyfield, Healing Yourself and Others, and Choice Point - Align Your Purpose.

Harry also founded and acts as Chairman of The Institute of Bioenergetic and Informational Healthcare, which provides first rate educational courses in energy medicine to train health practitioners to their fullest clinical potential.

In 2011, Harry wrote and directed the film Choice Point - Align Your Purpose www.choicepointmovie.com which includes interviews from Richard Branson, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Dr Silia Elworthy, Jean Paul DeJoria, Jack Canfield, Barbara Marx Hubbard and Greg Braden.

The vision behind NES and Choice Point is to help us attain a healthy, wise and purpose-filled life so that, collectively, we can change the world for the better.

Won’t you join us?
What is bio-energetics and how is it transforming the health landscape?

Bio-energetics is the study of information and energy in living organisms. Essentially, it’s using the body’s own energy to heal itself.

That sounds simple enough, but understanding how it works and how to harness the body’s own energy to heal itself is no small task.

Throughout history, mystics and healers have claimed we are “energy beings” surrounded by a complex, structured network of fields that interpenetrate the human physical body.

While traditional healthcare has primarily focused on physiology, our research shows that energy and information control biology. In fact, frontier science proves that our bodies regulate energy and information at a subcellular level.

At NES Health we call this the Human Body-Field (HBF), and it serves as the master control system for all our physiological functions.

We spent 30 years researching the human body-field to map it out. We discovered that the information our body provides to us is just as important to healing as our own energy.

In other words, if you practice some form of Energy Medicine and ignore how the body’s own information (our instruction manual) can be used to heal, you won’t get the clinical results you hope to achieve.

Bringing Bio-energetics to the World

As with any great idea, the magic lies in the simplicity. We knew we had to bring bio-energetics medicine to the world, so we developed The Total WellNES System (TWS) for practitioners to use.

It works by detecting and correcting the flow of energy and information in the body-field, and provides a recommended protocol that activates the body’s innate healing ability.

The Total WellNES System allows medical and alternative health practitioners to quickly and easily restore client health using our proprietary 4-step process. It’s easy to remember the 4 Rs:

• (Re)Assess
• Rejuvenate
• Re-Imprint
• Remote Scanning

Unlike any other health services or products out there, this unique system allows you to both analyze and correct your client’s state of wellness by addressing the 3 critical factors for health within the body:

• The energy that flows
• The information that is created, distributed and regulated
• The physiology

It is simple to use, but the effects are profound.
How bioenergetic medicine will transform your health practice...

Imagine a new client walking into your practice. You scan them to get a detailed analysis of their body-field, and immediately you know their exact areas of blockages and distortions.

Information as the New Medicine

The idea of information as medicine may seem radically different.

How can something as intangible as “information” have any effect on your body, never mind on the state of your health?

It may sound unbelievable, or at least unfamiliar to you, but let’s explore how it works.

The life-giving force of information

Did you ever think about how your body instinctively knows what to do? The great mystery of conventional biology is how we are “self-organizing” systems.

A perfect example of this is the marvel of life itself. We all start from a single cell that divides over and over again, forming tissues and organs, ultimately creating a functioning human being.

How miraculous is that, and how exactly does nature know what to do?

The answer is “information.” Information describes the way our systems are organized, but information also directs the development of that system to create “life”.

So when we ask, “What is a human being?” the most fundamental answer is just that: we are structured networks of information and energy fields.

Information + Energy = Life

Ultimately, information and energy are the building blocks of life, and anything we do to our body, including all therapies, directly affects the patterns of energy of our biology. The human body-field is a network of information and energy that serves as a master control system for the physical body, coordinating all physiological processes.

The basic premise for healing is that if cells and other aspects of the physical body lack the proper information, they cannot do their jobs correctly. Without the correct information, body processes break down, resulting in the symptoms of disease.

We are all susceptible to information becoming distorted because we are exposed to environmental toxins and pathogens, too much stress, poor diets, electromagnetic fields, and much more.
The Research Into Correcting Distortions

For more than thirty years Professor Peter Fraser of Melbourne University, NES’s co-founder, had been exploring how to detect and correct distorted information in the body-field. No one had explored health from this perspective before. Professor Fraser was the pioneer.

Professor Fraser conducted tens of thousands of experiments and collected data sets that correlate the body-field to the various aspects of the body such as cells and tissues, organs, body fluids such as blood and plasma, and emotions.

Most importantly, he studied how energy is directed and controlled in the different parts of the body. He devised a way to correct distortions so the body could get back to functioning as nature intended it to, which is to maintain a vibrant state of health and well-being.

Peter developed remedies based on the principle that information can change the structure of a substance, giving it healing properties when that information is transferred to you.

We call these remedies Infoceuticals™. They are pure information encoded in structured mineral water. The information in Infoceuticals corrects distortions in the body-field, ultimately directing the body’s own self-healing capacities.

The next section explains the science of water and how it stores information. You’ll discover how these remedies activate the body’s innate healing intelligence, making them the remedies of the future.
What do you need to survive: Water? Air? Food? Facebook?

If you included ‘water’ in your answer, you’re right. Water is crucial to life. In fact, your body is more water than anything else!

Did you know that your blood, bones and muscles are composed largely of water? A staggering 99 percent of the molecules in the human body are water molecules. That’s because the proteins and fats in our bodies are made up of water molecules. In fact, every cell in your body is filled with water. You can truly say we are born as water babies.

Your body is more ‘water’ than anything else. Water is fundamental to how our bodies function, and to our health and wellbeing.

Wonderful water: It’s not what’s in your kitchen sink

Your body is made of trillions of cells. They contain dozens of smaller, functioning structures that coordinate thousands of processes in your body.

Every cell in your body is the center of a whirlwind of activity coordinating thousands of processes in your body.

The cells do everything necessary to keep you alive, from breaking down food to extract energy, to secreting hormones, removing wastes, and monitoring your salt and water levels.

Inside your cells are proteins and other structures, with spaces that are filled with water. This means there are lots of surfaces that interact with water and impact its structure. In fact, water is part of the very structure of your cells.

You probably learned in science class that water is H₂O; however, the water in your cells is not ordinary tap water that runs into your kitchen sink. It has a unique crystalline structure. Instead of being H₂O it is H₃O₂⁻.

The ‘structure of water’ means the way water’s molecules are organized. Scientists have discovered some amazing things about water.

First, water molecules can join together into groups called clusters. Most surfaces and molecules in your body are H₃O₂⁻ and have a gel-like consistency. This type of water is found next to water-loving surfaces such as proteins and cell membranes, and has a special order of layers with different electrical charges from ordinary tap water.

This structured water works as memory cells in which water actually records information it is exposed to – just as a laser encodes information onto a Blu Ray disc.
Water: One Of The Primary Ways We Get Information

In the last section, we discovered how everything comes down to energy and information. We are completely connected to the environment around us, where we obtain information we need to survive and thrive.

Water is one of the primary ways our bodies get this information.

In a series of fascinating experiments in the 1990s, Dr. Masaru Emoto gained worldwide acclaim with his groundbreaking discovery that water is deeply connected to the consciousness of its surroundings.

Dr. Emoto performed a series of experiments observing the physical effect of information on the crystalline structure of water.

He exposed water to different environments. Then, using a very powerful microscope with high-speed photography, he captured the ‘expressions’ of water to show how they were imprinted by focused intention.

The frozen water samples showed that positive information such as classical music, focused prayer or uplifting words and phrases caused beautiful geometric crystals to form. Whereas negative information such as samples from polluted rivers, focused rage or words such as ‘hate’ and ‘fear’ that created distorted and randomly formed crystalline structures.

Dr. Emoto’s book The Hidden Messages in Water was published in Japan in 2005. With 500,000 copies sold internationally, it shows the keen interest in the amazing properties of water.

Many respected scientists such as Mae Wan-Ho and Professor Gerald Pollack also suggest that water does indeed exhibit different properties, depending on what it has been in contact with, meaning that water has memory.

Gerald Pollack is an academic researcher at the University of Washington. His latest book, The Fourth Phase of Water, provides a new understanding of water that holds the key to solving numerous puzzles in biology.

A little science...on your "water-based battery"

We can think of the biological building block of life, the cell, as a battery that must obtain energy to charge it. Water is part of the structure of each cell, and just like a battery, it needs to be charged.

We are always surrounded by infrared radiation from the sun, which we store as heat. We humans rely on sunlight as the energy source that "charges" the "water batteries" in our tissues.

Water that interacts with light and heat becomes ‘charge separated’. This means that the water molecule changes structure as the positively charged hydrogen atoms are repelled, leaving a negatively charged hydrogen and oxygen group.

This separation of charge allows us to draw electrical energy from our "water-based battery."

“It's like agitating a car key in the river, going miles downstream, extracting a few drops of water, and then starting one's car with the water”

Dr. Jacques Benveniste
The Living Matrix

The Living Matrix is an interconnected system that reaches into every part and system of the body including the cytoskeleton, and the nuclear matrix within each cell. It's made up of the structural collagen network. Collagen is the most abundant protein in the body. It helps strengthen connective tissue and provides cushioning for various parts of the body. The matrix is truly living, in that it provides our bodies with a coherent and stable structure. It is also the container of our internal ocean, the intercellular fluids where a myriad of biochemical, metabolic reactions take place that are crucial to our lives.

No water, no life. The matrix is the sponge that holds our water, bathes our cells with nutrients, and provides the avenues for eliminating the toxic by-products of cell activity. That's why the living matrix needs to be well hydrated.

The secret to how water stores information in the human body is in the hydrogen bonding network. All memory and information is transmitted directly into the hydrated collagen network by hydrogen flow and resonant vibrations in the liquid crystalline water surrounding all tissues and cells.

This hydrated collagen network acts like a liquid crystal superconducting cable that operates at the speed of light. This explains how our bodies are able to take up information almost instantaneously across all cells. As the collagen network touches all parts of the cell, information will also reach the DNA. This may lead to changes in the epigenetic expression of genes that code for healing, repair and growth.

So energy and information in the hydrated Living Matrix affects all aspects of the body field, including the nervous system (fight or flight verses relaxation mode), the immune system (innate and adaptive), the endocrine system (hormone and neurotransmitter), right down to the expression of the DNA (epigenetics).

The Living Matrix generates and transmits vibrations in the form of mechanical waves, electrical signals, magnetic and electromagnetic fields, heat, and light, and also, in the case of infoceuticals - patterns of pure information.

How the Body Heals

Your amazing body knows how to heal itself. It is beautifully equipped with natural self-repair mechanisms. It knows how to kill faulty cells, fix broken proteins, slow aging, eliminate toxins, fight infections, get rid of foreign bodies, and otherwise keep you healthy.

But when these self-repair mechanisms don't function properly, things go awry and disease can manifest. Your nervous system is hugely influenced by information transferred in the hydrated Living Matrix. The nervous system has two operating systems: the “fight-or-flight” stress response dominated by the sympathetic nervous system, and the relaxation response run by the parasympathetic nervous system. For your body's self-repair mechanisms to function, you need to spend time in parasympathic mode.

Information patterns in the form of “imprinted Infoceuticals” change the messages relayed to your brain and nervous system by changing the structure of the water in the connective tissue surrounding them.

This enables your body to access the relaxed state more easily, which activates its innate healing mode.
Structured Water as a Therapeutic Tool

Using structured water as a therapeutic tool is not new. Professor Gerald Pollock of Washington University, is one of the pioneers in this area.

Professor Pollock wrote several books on the importance of water in the cells. His ideas influenced Harry Massey, who is working closely with Pollock to put forward his crucially important research. It will overthrow much outdated biological theory, which Harry will reveal in his movie Super Charged www.superchargedmovie.com.

“If you have pathology of an organ, it’s not only the proteins inside the organ that are not working, but also the water inside that organ. That near-protein water is not ordered in the way it should be. So what you want to do is re-establish a kind of "ordering." – Prof. Gerald Pollack

Professor and Nobel prize-winning French Virologist Luc Montagnier described how DNA imprints information into water from an electromagnetic field, and how this information affects the water molecules immediately next to them.

He claims that he and his colleagues have been able to “transmit” the signature of DNA into water and that the electromagnetic imprint of the DNA molecule was detected by enzymes that were able to use it to replicate the DNA just as if they had been in contact with the real molecule.

“Within two weeks of taking Infoceuticals, I wasn’t tired all the time and I keep on seeing improvements every time I see my practitioner.”- Katie Schmidt, suffered from Chronic Fatigue Syndrome
Montagnier’s theory provides solid evidence to support NES Health theory, in which we maintain that the physical body is interdependent with the energetic body, or human body-field.

We have always maintained that symptoms and diseases arise from uncorrected distortions in energy and information, and that DNA is not the master control system of the physical body – the body-field is.

It’s enormously empowering to learn that far from being a victim to your DNA, you can influence your health by what you take into your body and by your surroundings.

As we’ve been discussing, water is a bit like a computer’s hard drive that can store audio and visual information and then play it back.

The information your body receives is vitally important, because it influences which proteins your body manufactures to repair or create new tissue.

Water actually provides a mechanism for transferring information that gets your cells to do different things. So how does water tell your body what to do? It depends on the information in the water. The better the information you give your body, the better your health.

Water is a mechanism for transferring information that gets your cells to do different things.
Infoceuticals: Revolutionary Remedies of the Future

NES Health has developed a new breed of liquid energetic remedies with information ‘imprinted’ or ‘encoded’ in water called Infoceuticals.

Each remedy contains pure information that directly corrects specific information structures and energy patterns in your body.

Infoceuticals actually change the environment of your cells, turning on a positive epigenetic expression so that your body makes the right growth proteins for repair.

The remedies interact directly with the human body-field to address blockages and correct distortions. In this way they activate your body’s own healing mechanism, supporting and encouraging a more balanced, healthy life.

For example:
Heart Driver aids your heart field as it relates to decision-making processes, mental clarity and integration, identity and self-esteem. It also helps regulate emotions and can have a beneficial effect on skin tone and appearance.
Rejuvenation energetically helps rejuvenate the body after sports, strenuous physical activity, or physical injury, impact or shock. It also helps with tissue regeneration, muscle recovery, muscle tone, and may ease muscle strain, swelling and trauma.

You take Infoceuticals as drops in a glass of water based on a specific protocol that your NES practitioner will prescribe.

Drop by drop, these ground-breaking remedies help return your body's energy flow to its perfect natural state where your own innate healing intelligence can do what it is designed to do.

Your body's ability to heal itself is a miracle of nature. NES products encourage that miracle by helping to activate your body's own healing systems.

Drop by drop, Infoceuticals help activate your own innate healing intelligence.

Infoceuticals are safe, effective and easy to use. From helping to accelerate your body's natural recovery from colds and flu, to supporting your entire nervous system to help you deal better with stress; infoceuticals are your personal energetic first-aid kit.

Instead of focusing on symptom relief they are non-invasive remedies that work with your body's own information and energy systems, making them truly the remedies of the future.

“Late last week, I re-injured my sacroiliac/sciatic area, which had been significantly injured over a decade ago. The pain was getting worse by the day. I started the Muscle Driver on Tuesday, and by yesterday midday the pain was 80% improved, nearly gone today by Thursday. Thank you!”
Jason Siczkowycz, ND (NES Practitioner)

Infoceuticals: The Proof is in the People!

Our Infoceuticals provide the information to correct body-field distortions. Because we know the preferred sequence of correcting the “structure” of the body-field, we can correct it at the macro level, not the micro level.

This is why NES does not have hundreds or thousands of Infoceuticals (as with homeopathic remedies) and we do not have to diagnose or figure out which virus or mineral deficiency is causing physical symptoms.

We correct the macro structures (the quantum structure in space) of the body-field, which then regulate the physical body and help return the body to homeostasis.

To objectively assess the effectiveness of NES Health therapy, we conducted studies on 200 clients at the Centre for Biofield Sciences, using three different assessment devices.

Participants had a wide range of symptoms and conditions. The most common were gastrointestinal problems, and spine and joint issues.

From the 200 clients: 96.5% experienced a positive change, 2.5% subjects experienced a mixed change, and 1% experienced a negative change; 0% experienced no change at all.

One of the assessments showed that NES Infoceuticals reduced the feelings of depression, stress, and premenopausal mood swings, and increased emotional stability and an elevated sense of calmness.

Are you ready to activate your body’s innate healing intelligence?

“NES is very accurate. With the Infoceuticals, I could feel a shift immediately. I’m a lot happier and it’s a lot more fun living my life this way.”
John Fuhler, suffered from insomnia
Can human consciousness affect matter, including our bodies and states of health? You may have to “wave” goodbye to how science currently measures processes, and take a quantum leap into understanding how bioenergetic devices work.

Mind Can Affect Matter

At the Princeton Engineering Anomalies Research lab at Princeton University, research conducted by Robert Jahn and Brenda Dunne since 1979 has demonstrated that the human mind can influence physical processes.

In tens of thousands of trials, Jahn and Dunne asked subjects to use their intention to try to influence randomly generated events, such as with a computer spewing out random strings of 0s and 1s. In this and similar tests, subjects were able to positively influence the right answer more than 50% of the time. Statistics tell us that the results should be exactly even. It should produce a 1 50% of the time, and a 0 50% of the time. Yet experiments over 25 years showed conclusively that the right answer was produced on average 54% of the time. In other words the physical world of random events can be influenced by the mind alone.

One of the most famous outcomes of Quantum Physics is called the Observer Effect – where an electron appears exactly where the observer is looking. I.e. The electron is in a state of superposition rather like a wave – until the point where it is observed upon which it collapses into a particle in an exact location.

Random Event Generators are able to act as an interface in a similar way. Before we generate a set of random events, it is in a state of superposition with all possibilities being available. When we express an intention for the experiment to produce a result (i.e. a 1 or 0) and run the experiment, more than 50% of the time it will give us the right answer.

Having read Jahn and Dunn’s research, Harry decided to test it for himself and ran some simple experiments to see if the computer could predict which squares in a grid he had colored black, and which he had left white. Incredibly it worked.

Harry called Peter to discuss whether he thought they could apply this principle to a health analysis device. Peter thought they could. They then spent the next 18 months working out the sets of information of the human body-field and programming them in the right sequence to create the first version of ProVision software.

Both Harry and Peter almost fell of their chairs when they ran the first scan and it analyzed their health!

Before that day, bio-energetic practitioners used electro-point-probe systems using ampoules of various substances to match against the client’s body. The system was laborious and far from perfect. Finally, Peter’s 25 years of using a point probe and vials were over.

Types of Random Event Generators

NES researched multiple ways of generating random events to use in our ProVision software, including photons (the quantum particle associated with light) projected through a semi-transparent mirror, pseudo-random number generators and thermal noise from electronic circuits.

Although the different random event sources did not yield any significant differences in results, we settled on using thermal noise detected in a computer to create each individual seed or start point used in a pseudo random number generator, which go on to generate the 0’s and 1’s. These decide whether there is a likely match between the body-field and each health parameter in the scan.

NES researched multiple ways of generating random events and found it is not as important as how it is processed and the algorithms that do that processing. Mainly this comes down to the random event matching technique having a preferred sequence to doing the test – in other words the order of the map of the body-field. You need quality information and sequence, to get accurate results.

Repeatability and Accuracy

Conventional science, especially medical science, does not accept techniques and processes that are not repeatable. Medicine is ruled with Newtonian rigid thinking and completely ignores the quantum aspect of our reality. Newtonian theory is all right for the macro universe – but fails when we look at quantum processes in the body and how we are able to see what was previously unseen – the body-field.

The human body-field is dynamic and ever-changing. Yet patterns are detected over time. Thousands of clients have experienced extraordinary insights and results with these scanning devices, especially when the tests are run a few days apart.

Each time a scan is run, the computer is interfacing with the client’s informational (or energetic) body-field. The test itself subtly alters that field through the observer effect. You could say that the test information is actually connecting or imprinting on that person’s body-field.

If another scan is conducted too soon, the observer effect or information from the first test alters information picked up in the person’s body-field during the second test. It is best to wait a few days for the body-field to “quiet down” so that the observer’s connection and information dissipates before running another test.

Matching in Nature

Over the years of studying what we call “matching”, we surmised that nature generally prefers the “best possible answer,” not a single definitive answer, from the many possible options.

This process is different from the statistical probability that rules the quantum world. It is also not about chance or randomness. Matching is the process by which two items or processes link within the vast network of relations that make up the body-field. If two items match, they can “talk” to each other, or share information within the dynamic body-field.

Most importantly, we have found that any answer you get is only as good as the question you pose. So input (the data in the biotechnology’s computer program) is of paramount importance.

What matters most is accuracy in the:

- quality of the test items
- sequence of the test items
- intention of both practitioner and client

Peter Fraser spent 25 years researching the information that forms the map of the human body-field. Harry and Peter additionally spent 10 years re-inventing, refining and testing that set of information to ensure the quality and sequence was as accurate as possible.

That work has resulted in the unprecedented abilities of the Total WellNES System to detect and correct the energy and information of the human body-field.

Of course the best method of evaluating a system is to try it yourself and speak to all of the practitioners who are getting incredible results with the system!
What sets NES apart is that we have discovered what to test for (what questions to ask of the body-field), and also that there is a preferred order for analyzing the body-field to get accurate information.

Peter Fraser’s years of working on body-field theory has shown that there is also a preferred order to correcting distortions in the body-field. Think of the body-field structure as a map. When the map is scrunched up, you can’t read it properly. But when you smooth it out, you can understand it.

Still, if you don’t know how to read the map, or if you don’t read it in the right order, you can misunderstand the directions or misinterpret information.

Peter Fraser spent years working out the techniques to discover the preferred order of the body-field and how to correct distortions.

Together he and Harry Massey discovered how to apply that information to a computer-based clinical system. No other system or theory follows this preferred sequence or has even researched a sequence in either testing or correcting the body-field.

That’s why we know the Total WellNES System excels both in the accuracy of its scan results and in its clinical application.

The next section discusses the miHealth, and how Pulsed Magnetic Feedback can magnify your client’s health!
If you’ve ever watched Star Trek, you know it takes place in a fictional universe two or three centuries into the future.

On the Starship Enterprise, medical technology is far more sophisticated and advanced than in today’s world. You may recall a multifunctional hand-held device called a medical Tricorder. Well, it didn’t take two or three centuries for this technological dream to come true - at least in this galaxy.

NES technology caught up in just 12 years. And it’s not fiction. To design a Home WellNES program that anyone could use, Harry Massey first needed to establish a network of dedicated, well-educated practitioners in bio-energetics—and also invent the technology to make it happen.

Healing IS Voltage

Do you ever use the expression, “recharging your batteries” to talk about getting more rest? You instinctively know that you’ll be healthier when you give your body the rest it needs to heal itself.

But in addition to the essential elements you already know about, including food, water, sunlight, oxygen, sleep and exercise, there is one element you may not have considered: the earth’s PEMFs. (Pulsed Electro Magnetic Fields).

You see, at an energetic level, our cells act as battery-driven miniature pumps. They require food for fuel, oxygen for combustion, and magnetism to drive the process.

Healing is simply a matter of charging up your cells to their optimal voltage so they can do their work. Enough magnetic energy is normally provided by the earth’s energy fields. However in our modern indoor lifestyles, we have become disconnected from the earth. Our “human battery” can run us down, and we need to recharge it.

Healing is simply a matter of charging up the depleted cells to their optimal voltage so they can do their work.

The miHealth detects the areas in the body with cells depleted of energy. It literally “jump-starts” the healing process by providing enough magnetic energy at the cellular level to the places your body needs it.
Ever Wonder Why There’s No Heart Cancer?

The reason there is no heart cancer is that the heart cells have the highest voltage of any cells in the body.

As amazing as it may sound, the energy field of your body extends outwards for up to 15 feet.

Non-invasive magnetic pulses create small electrical signals in the tissue to enhance cellular repair. Clinical trials and other controlled studies have been conducted by physiotherapists, rheumatologists, neurologists, pain specialists, and others, showing the effectiveness of magnetic pulses, especially in healing soft-tissue injury, reducing inflammation at the cell level, encouraging bone growth, and alleviating pain.

Your health relies on the continuous and balanced exchange of energy in your body. Every function of your body is interrelated and works in harmony with other functions - that is, until stress, injury or disease disrupts that communication.

Luckily, the body is a magnificent mechanism. When it has enough voltage and functions optimally, it has the innate intelligence to trigger its own powerful and often immediate, improvement.

Some batteries you toss away but the batteries in your body are forever. Fortunately the miHealth can identify where to recharge the batteries in your body.

If your batteries are running low....now there’s a solution: the world’s first PULSED MAGNETIC FEEDBACK (PMF) TECHNOLOGY
The miHealth is the world’s first device that helps you to train your body in the right place through feeding your cells magnetic energy. We call this Pulsed Magnetic Feedback (PMF).

The miHealth biofeedback device works by sending an extremely low, noninvasive current signal on the surface of the skin to different parts of the body. Then, audibly, visually and magnetically it lets the body know how it’s responding physiologically.

By putting energy back into the specific area at issue, the miHealth can then raise the electrical potential of those cells, restoring them over time to their normal, optimal functioning. This also stimulates the nervous system, sending a signal to the brain to direct resources to that particular part of the body as part of the natural healing response.

Pulsed Magnetic Feedback is known to help reduce stress and re-educate parts of your body and mind to create healthier patterns which can lead to a better quality of life.

The goal is to get your cellular and body’s energy flow back to operating with maximum efficiency. Because the body can easily get trained into “patterns” where the energy becomes sluggish or stuck, rejuvenating your body’s energy flow is critical to releasing stuck patterns to allow your body’s innate intelligence to take over.

“PMF is a benefit for mankind from infant to the geriatric. PMF will lead to a change in the paradigm of medicine.”

Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize Winner

Tap Into the Benefits of Magnetic Feedback:
• Regenerate and rejuvenate
• Support the body’s inherent improvement abilities
• Reduces stress and improve mood
• Improve sleep
• Gain energy and vitality
• And more!

How the NES miHealth works

The NES miHealth scans the human body-field to identify energetic blockages.

The energetic blockages can be cleared and trigger point stimulated either directly on the body or...

Therapy can be delivered off-body in broadcast mode with the same effect.
From Oz to NASA, The World’s Top Scientists Agree: Pulsed Magnetism is the Real Thing!

Pulsed Magnetism is so effective that it was recently featured on the Dr. Oz Show. Dr. Oz urged all his viewers to demand this therapy from their doctors, who for the most part still don’t know about it.

And, let’s face it, when it comes to research studies it doesn’t get much better than NASA. They discovered that the benefits include improved tissue (specifically nerve cells), greater cell energy and longevity, accelerated cell growth, improved cellular voltage, cell restoration and growth, and much more.

Feedback on our Feedback

We recently conducted a large miHealth study on 251 subjects. Results showed that 88% of the participants benefitted from the NES miHealth at the initial consultation.

The second and third therapy sessions compounded the positive effect of increased wellness. More than 60% experienced reduced symptoms, and after the second therapy session, 93% reported a significant improvement in their condition. 85% of people with chronic conditions reported an immediate positive effect from the therapy.

SEE Into the Future and Revolutionize Your Health Practice

Acupuncture, chiropractic, or even yoga: who knew about them 40 years ago? They were strange concepts that only people “on the fringes” bought into.

Today they are household words, and millions of people worldwide enjoy their benefits.

Now it’s time for bio-energetics to take its rightful place in the healing revolution.

It took 12 long years of dreaming, planning, research and intense work to transform my vision into reality. To make this unique, Home WellNES program available to everyone, we first had to build the technology and wait for the Internet to be advanced enough to handle the data from the body-field. Then we had to establish a network of educated, dedicated practitioners.

That’s where you come in.

You are an integral part of the picture. Your expertise, commitment and passion for helping people will bring the Home Wellness Program to millions of people worldwide.

With the world’s first telemedicine service, you can help more clients get well and stay well than you ever dreamed possible.

As a NES Health practitioner you can:

- SEE beyond your client’s symptoms
- SEE the distortions in their body-field to help you clear energy blockages
- SEE the information they need to activate their own healing systems
- SEE your clients get well and stay well

Once you SEE it, you can begin the healing process.
It takes just 3 simple steps:

STEP 1: DETECT
You simply scan the client’s body using your client scanner or miHealth in your office, or they can scan themselves remotely and sent the data to you by Internet.

STEP 2: SELECT
Your client’s scan will recommend miHealth functions and Infoceuticals.

STEP 3: CORRECT
If your client has a miHealth (instead of a ProVision Whole-Being Scanner), you program the selected miHealth functions for them to download. You can also have the recommended Infoceuticals delivered right to their home address.

You can schedule follow-up scans and consultations as needed, on an ongoing basis.
You’ve heard the famous words, “Yes we can!”
Now this takes on new meaning with a twist: Yes you can...scan and help clients from the comfort of your own home, and theirs!

With the miHealth, you are no longer confined to helping clients within your four walls. You can help clients anywhere they live, next door or across the globe. Your clients purchase the miHealth, scan themselves, and send you their scan. You assess their scans, and personally tailor a program and recommendations for your client. You can consult with them by phone or Skype at a time convenient to both of you.

Praise From Health Practitioners

Perfectly Complements Other Modalities

“Prior to NES (which I’ve been using for more than five years), I was using a combination of Nutrition, Kinesiology, Reflexology, NLP, Hair Mineral Analysis and Allergy Testing. Now I still use all of those tools, but NES is my primary healing tool. It fits and combines perfectly with any other modality I choose.”

WellNES Helped Launch Her Practice

“Initially I used NES for my own family and friends, but success and good results brought more and more inquiries my way. In 2005 I began operating from my home office... I do not even need to advertise my business as I find the referrals from satisfied clients and other practitioners is enough for me to handle at this time.”

The Proof is in the People and Pets
“Mommy, I can’t breathe, my throat is closing up”. No parent wants to see their child struggle for air, but that was my reality: my daughter’s endless days and nights of gasping for air, accompanied by a fearful sobbing voice.

Asthma attacks are frightening and they escalate quickly. Unfortunately my oldest daughter endured this situation for over 4 years. It started after she suffered severe life-threatening allergic reactions to her vaccine components.

If I had only known the risks and clear contradictions, I would have protected her sooner from the adverse events. But, you don’t know...what you don’t know.

Previously, our “shoulda, coulda, woulda” life consisted of followed the traditional methods of coping with asthma, by using the take-home nebulizer breathing machine, on-the-go asthma inhaler, endless bottles of Benadryl, and must-have Epi-Pens.

Thanks to NES Health, we have discovered a new path. Before I even scanned my daughter I’d been able to stop several asthma attacks without the traditional interventions, by using the “feel good” Infoceuticals and miHealth sessions from the physical, mind, and well-being categories.

As a new WellNES user, I couldn’t believe what was happening. How can this be? I was able to instantly calm my daughter’s emotional hysteria and stop her from wheezing and heaving within a matter of minutes. Seeing is believing! I learned that NES Health is the real deal. As a mother, I’m so grateful! I can’t wait to share NES and help other moms feel empowered.

NES Changed the Course of Adam’s Life

I have an emotional and clinical investment in this case study. Our grandson Adam was diagnosed with autism when he was about 3 years old. Trying to help him overcome this malady was my prime reason for getting involved with NES. I am a chiropractor and naturopath, and have adjusted him and given him sacro-cranial work, both of which helped.

He took NES Infoceuticals for 10 months and improvement became evident after the 2nd month. Prior to NES he lived in a world of his own and did not feel pain if he fell or bumped his head. He gradually became more alert, turned towards the person speaking to him and eventually started saying a few words. Repetitive motions gradually lessened and he stopped crying at night. I recommended a gluten/dairy/sugar free diet to assist with obvious GI issues and suggested no more vaccinations. After 10 months there was an end of year concert for the Early Intervention class, and the teacher said Adam was the most improved.

Adam’s treatment occurred during my early days with NES (2005). I remember Peter Fraser saying Heart Driver would show up at some point in autistic patients. I waited month after month and it finally showed.

Now Adam is 14 years old, is a straight A student, has a black belt in Taekwondo and taught the younger children. He plays 3 musical instruments, was chosen as first chair in the trombone section of the Las Vegas Youth Symphony Orchestra and out of 300 students was awarded a music scholarship to attend a Magnet School. He is a balanced, loving, well-mannered young man.

Even a baby can be put on NES. I have done this with other grandchildren. I don’t know of any risks. I wouldn’t hesitate to use NES! It definitely changed the course of Adam’s life.

miHealth Replaces Prescription Medications

Last fall, my husband was diagnosed with prostate cancer. Ignoring the unattractive treatment options offered by his local urologist, he selected proton radiation therapy at the Scripps Proton Therapy Center in San Diego. Unlike regular photon radiation which destroys cancerous cells along with much of the surrounding tissues, and negatively affects the entire body, proton therapy has very limited side effects. Protons can be precisely targeted to the cancerous areas and spare other areas of the body that do not need to be radiated.

A typical proton treatment protocol involves 40 treatments; based on over 20 years of experience, the medical staff knows that around the 17th treatment, the patient’s urinary tract becomes irritated to the point where hourly trips to the bathroom throughout the night are the norm. They offer prescription medications to address this issue for patients who can’t cope otherwise.

Having a miHealth device on hand, I treated the bladder area with Matrix Carrier, Biocell, Bladder (ER-14), Nerve, Acute Balance, and Energy Align functions before bedtime. Within two days, the number of nightly trips to the bathroom had been reduced from about 8 to 3-4 times and remained at that level, even without further miHealth applications.

Hearing of the miHealth miracle, the Proton Center staff were quite excited about the potential for improving patient comfort throughout the proton therapy cycle and requested a NES demonstration. Considering that over-active bladder is a common condition affecting millions of Americans, a clinical miHealth study could have a huge quality-of-life impact.

Remarkable Success With NES In 5 Weeks…After 4 Years Of No Improvement From Western Medicine

My female 58-year-old client came to me with Sjogren’s Syndrome, an autoimmune disease. Her face was flushed red and swollen at the initial visit. For two years she suffered from unexplained swelling and redness in both upper and lower lips, which looked like Botox gone bad, plus black and blue marks on her face from swelling. She had nerve damage on her lips from so many biopsies. No doctor could diagnose the issue.

After her brother died, she had the big responsibility of selling her brother’s company. She had difficulty sleeping and took Ambien 10mg each night. She also had extreme pain in her shoulder, and had suffered from chronic bronchial problems since childhood, using an asthma inhaler 2x day.

We focused on her immune system, shoulder pain, bronchial/asthma issue and sleep problems. I saw this patient every week for 5 weeks, and treated her with the ER’s and Infoceutical recommended. The client improved as follows:

• Sleeping well for at least 7 hours without sleep medication.
• No longer uses asthma inhaler at all and doesn’t even carry one with her anymore.
• Shoulder pain is gone.
• Just started work on the nerve damage on her lips.
• Redness and swelling are completely gone from her face. She looks 15lbs lighter because of the reduced inflammation.

With no improvement after 4 years with Western medicine, the improvement with NES was remarkable after only 5 weeks. The client is ecstatic – a total win!

Smiles Restored After Severe Illness

Vicky, a 57 year old school friend, lived 300 miles away. I shared my excitement about NES & asked to scan her. She burst into tears because she felt hopeless and suicidal after a 5 day hospitalization for the flu. After vomiting for 36 hours, she had severe dehydration and was depleted of potassium & magnesium.

The medications she received caused diarrhea, which started the cycle again with a severe disruption of sleeping patterns. When I arrived, she had been in bed for 3 weeks. She had aged significantly and walked with a shuffle, hunched over. She never smiled.

Vickie’s current health conditions were complicated by lifelong heavy drinking and smoking. As a result of her illness, she lost her stressful job of 22 years as a stockbroker.

She had developed COPD, fibromyalgia & shingles. Her shingles caused severe scarring around the rib cage, with painful burning, itching and muscle spasms every 20 minutes during an outbreak.

Amazingly, after I treated her, her shingles pain was ¼ the intensity, her spasms were rare, and she had energy and was smiling. Two days later she was out of the house doing things. Two weeks later she called, crying with gratitude. She was sleeping better, was able to do housework, and was playing cribbage again with friends. We can’t wait to have her try the new Infoceuticals & client miHealth.

A Mystery For The Doctors

Last November I became very ill. I had high fever, my lungs hurt, I couldn’t breathe well, couldn’t sleep, and could barely walk. As I’m an acupuncturist and energetics therapist, I refused to go to a regular doctor.

I searched the Internet and “met” NES. My wife put me in a car and drove me to a hotel to meet a NES practitioner, Peter Paulissen. After one session with miHealth and a series of Infoceuticals, I returned home.

I was holding a lot of water in my body, and I had to go to the hospital where they diagnosed me with a “silent heart attack.” They pointed out the scars. I finished my Infoceutical cycle and went back to the hospital for a check-up. They performed a catheterization (going with a tube into the arteries) to look for the problem. They were amazed as they could not find anything at all. I was clear, fully clear. For the doctors it was a mystery. Not for me...NES did the work!

80% Improvement in Autistic Syndrome

My wife Ann and I have a 7 year old who was diagnosed “Autistic Syndrome” from the age of 2. I believe this was the result of his first vaccinations. He was never the same!

Thankfully, we discovered NES and started Vladimir on it 1½ years ago. The improvement was steady and then in spurts. At this point I’d estimate that he’s 80% improved. His speech is still about 1½ years behind, his reading is nonexistent, his emotional control is about 80%, his writing is about 10% but he’s gaining fast.

Much of the time, strangers have no idea of his “label”. Before NES, everyone KNEW something was wrong within a few minutes. His piercing screams would paralyze people within 50 feet! For 5 years we were overwhelmed with emotion. It might take another year, but this is also part of our situation. Getting retested the recommended 4-5 weeks would speed up the whole process.

We’re not too concerned anymore. I believe in another year or two, it will be very difficult to know that he had any problems.

Rheumatoid Arthritis Patient Shows Great Improvement

A client with rheumatoid arthritis was brought to my office by her sister. She had recently been placed on disability. Her hands were in claw-like positions and she could not open her fingers or use her hands in a normal manner. After her very first treatment with miHealth using the recommended ER's, she left my office able to open her hands and move her shoulders. I continued to support her with Infoceuticals and weekly miHealth sessions. She returned to work after 6 months of treatment and continues to do well.

Carpal Tunnel Syndrome To Pain-Free Hand

A client came to me with a history of Carpal Tunnel Syndrome. She had worn a brace for the last 3 years because she works on a computer. She was told she needed surgery on her hand. Even with the brace she didn’t get relief from the pain. Her scan revealed that her priority was ESR and BFA. I did 3 miHealth treatments and after that she didn’t need the brace. Now she is excited to have full use of her hand, pain free due to NES Total WellNES System.

Staph Infection Gone After Years Of Suffering

My husband Dale got a hospital staph infection in the skin of his hands 15 years ago. He suffered from breakouts and had to get antibiotic shots monthly. For years he tried everything, including acupuncture, herbs, infectious disease specialists, numerous naturopathic approaches, environmental illness specialists and homeopathy, without success. When I first heard about NES Health I knew it could help him. He began using Infoceuticals, and over the course of one year he got better and better. Then one day the staph infection was gone and it never came back. He is so happy and delighted!

Opera Singer Mom And Her Baby Get Much-Needed Rest

A few years ago I treated an opera singer who was rehearsing for her debut at the Metropolitan Opera in New York. She was getting over post natal depression, and was completely exhausted as her 6 month old baby, Brody, wasn’t sleeping longer than two hours at a time, and didn’t sleep at all some night.

She was full of stress as Brody had a major reflux issue, losing much of each feeding, was underweight and was being watched closely by his pediatrician. I treated both of them and within days Brody’s reflux almost completely cleared up. He began to sleep 4-6 hours at a time.

His mum got some much-needed rest, and felt more grounded and emotionally solid. Her debut went wonderfully, gleaning some amazing write ups. She returned to the Met a number of times, once as a substitute for a leading role and another time for a world premiere. Brody continued to gain weight and maintained regular sleeping patterns. This woman follows up with me when she is in the city and is a huge fan of NES.

Quickest Success Story Ever

My quickest success ever was “RM” my son’s friend. He was in excruciating pain with a twisted lower back brought on by his stressful life. My treatment was: Matrix carrier 2 minutes, bowel 2 minutes, back scrub for 30 seconds on top of the spine, ESR (on body) all over the back, then 30 seconds on the bottom of the spine, increasing to levels 2, 3, 4 and 5. I finished off with energy align.

Then he stood up and walked out free of pain!

Infoceuticals Transformed Woman Into a Happy, Healthy Person

A 46-year-old woman had almost continuous emotional problems resulting from the loss of her 18-year-old daughter in a car accident. The emotional disorder resulted in a permanent fear of diseases such as cancer and tumors, and in a continuous drive to overprotect her loved ones.

We started with a psychological scan (using her own product) and a NES scan. By providing her with insights, she was able to take the information and convince herself that she was more or less ok. The numerous physical complaints were solved with Infoceuticals. After 2 weeks we performed a new scan and ALL her physical complaints were resolved. The emotional distress is now on an acceptable level. Her permanent fear has disappeared. Her drive for control and protection is reduced to normal levels. In summary, 2 weeks and 2 Infoceuticals transformed her into a happy, healthy person full of trust in the future.

NES Lessens Physical And Psychological Human Suffering

I just wanted to share my excitement and enthusiasm. I’m blown away by NES and its ability to identify and address the complexities that underlie human illness. I’ve never seen such a thorough discussion of the energetic world of microbiology and its role in human illness. I know of no other system in the world so capable of unleashing the body’s innate healing potential by truly unblocking the myriad obstacles that stand in its way. I see the NES Health System as a seriously viable tool in terms of lessening the frequency and degree of physical and psychological human suffering (maybe animals too).

Thank you, Peter Fraser for creating this technology, and thank you Harry Massey, for making it available.

Old Cocker Morphs Into Energetic Pup

The owner thought it was time to put his buddy out of his misery. The cocker/shi tzu mix was declining in health to the point of not getting out of his bed. He refused food and water, and had to be carried outside. He was so wobbly that he would fall over. He whimpered, and was thought to be deaf.

I offered to scan the dog, and he couldn’t even lift his head at the time of the scan. The following recommendations came up: BFA, Polarity, Nerve Driver, ED4, ES9 audio processing – one dropper of each daily.

Within 24 hours we had a positive response! By day 3 he responded to his name, he was able to walk, and his appetite returned. The 2nd scan identified gall bladder, which dogs do not have. However they have “a pack” that is left over from evolution. I used ED13 immunity driver, ES10 video programming, BFA, Polarity, and CBH.

The owner says Eabo is like a puppy again in his energy and activity!

NES helped our pony named Nanette give birth to a happy, healthy foal. Nannette had suffered from 2 pregnancies that resulted in miscarriage or a foal born dead. The veterinarian said that due to the damage to her uterus, she was unlikely to become pregnant again, so we didn’t separate her from our stallion Aladdin.

In July we saw that Nanette seemed fatigued, and performed a NES scan. Although we did not see signs of pregnancy, the scan in the “mind screen” revealed that she was suffering from the fear of losing her child and she needed peace. I was pretty alarmed, and called my NES teacher, Emilia Curtis. She recommended ER for Uterus, plus Infoceuticals Peace and Source. I treated her for 3 weeks until she got better. In September, my daughter called me early in the morning to tell me that Nannette had given birth to a beautiful foal (stallion), white with black spots like a Dalmatian. We called him Indigo and he is a happy, healthy foal living with his mum and dad!

Grand Prix Jumping Horse Leaps Free Of Pain

Nick, a warmblood horse, was flown from France to be used as a Grand Prix Jumping Horse. He arrived with severe low and mid-back pain. There was also terrible pain in his sternum. The vets injected his back and nothing helped the pain. I was called in to use the ProVision scan. On the ER's, stomach, large & small intestine and nervous system came up. There were more, but these were the priorities that needed to be addressed.

I palpated the horse and compared diagnostic points for ulcers. They took Nick to a hospital where they put a scope down his throat & stomach and found 3 or 4 ulcers. Although he was treated with western medicine to save his life, he had no pain. We still treat Nick with the miHealth and the trainers at the barn continue to bring us more horses to scan.

Loud Sounds And Storms No Longer Scare This Dog!

My dog, a white Sheppard named Djinta, was always very nervous, afraid of loud sounds, storms and fireworks. She would hide in her bed or in the garage, shaking and afraid. Once I had the miHealth, I treated her just before the fireworks began on 31st of December at midnight. I started at 9pm using ESR for 2 minutes. I waited one hour and did it again with inner peace for 30 minutes. She went to sleep.

Outside they had already started the fireworks. At 11:30pm I gave Djinta another miHealth session and she stayed calm and did not panic. The miHealth was on one meter from the dog... amazing!

In the past I had tried many things such as Bach flowers, but this was the first time in 10 years Djinta stayed calm. It was an eye-opener, and I continue to use it when she is nervous, but her attitude has changed, she is much more relaxed now!

Racehorses often exhibit behavioral problems which make it difficult for them to perform well. We have been using the miHealth on horses since it first appeared. We have treated many animals with marked success, achieving 7 winners at the Cheltenham National Hunt Festival in 2012 and 6 the following year.

A talented filly (Perfect Act) got so worked up by the racing environment that she had run her race even before she'd left the starting stalls, and did not replicate the ability she demonstrated at home with her trainer.

She was treated, off body with our preferred pre-race settings: Matrix Carrier, Energy Align & Energy. This sequence has proved to be very successful in several Cheltenham wins, including two Gold Cups.

We added the settings of Mental Clarity & Inner Peace to calm her. She appeared to be noticeably calmer. She was loaded into the stalls placidly and won her race by several lengths. Punters asked the lad leading her up in the paddock, where she was normally a real handful, what had been done with her since she was so calm. This particular case was interesting to us since it demonstrated the use of the miHealth device with mental conditions.

We find the mental aspects fascinating, and I’m afraid we rather take for granted the amazing results we get with physical treatments!
